

2019-2020 IHR RESEARCH CLUSTER: APPLICATION FORM
Deadline: March 11, 2019

1. Topic/Theme of Research Cluster:

2. Facilitator(s):

We encourage facilitators from two departments or units. All projects should include at least one facilitator who is a humanities scholar in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

3. Narrative:

A brief (one page) description of the proposed activities of the group, including a preliminary calendar of events. If you received IHR support last year and are applying for continuation of funding, be sure to demonstrate how the second year's activities will broaden the cluster's activities, attract additional participants, expand or deepen the group's focus, or produce spin-off clusters and/or additional campus-wide programs.

4. Purpose and Outcomes:

What significance or value will this have for participants, for the mission of the IHR, and for ASU? (See "About the Humanities" at <http://ihr.asu.edu/about> for additional information about transdisciplinarity and the IHR mission.)

5. Cluster Participants:

The primary cluster participants should be ASU faculty, although a few graduate students may join research clusters at the discretion of the facilitators.

a. Individuals who have committed to regular participation in this research group:

b. Probable monthly meeting dates and times to which participants have agreed:

6. Budget:

Clusters may request a maximum of $1,000 for their academic year activities, including one required public event.

- a. Itemized budget:
- b. As needed, a justification for the expenses:
- c. Are you receiving any other financial support for this project? Provide details here:

Jenny Norton Research Cluster supplementary funds

Research Clusters that include a significant focus on women may be eligible for an additional $750 in supplemental funds from the Jenny Norton Fund.

- a. Do you believe your project is eligible for consideration?
- b. How would you spend the additional $750 if it were awarded?